JIM SALESTROM & THE TIMBERLINE REUNION

JIM SALESTROM

Jim played the Farm Concert in 2009, turning a capacity crowd into lifelong fans. This year, he will appear with his band Timberline, a group he started in high school with his brother Chuck exactly 50 years ago. The result was a major label album, coast to coast touring and a chance to meet and perform with many of the movers and shakers at the top level of the music business. One of those people was Dolly Parton, who hired Jim as a picker and harmony singer in her touring band, and another was John Denver, who used Jim's talents in the studio and Jim's friendship to help navigate the murky waters of show business. Jim Salestrom is a true Rocky Mountain music legend.

SOUTHERN EXPOSURE

From the Telluride Bluegrass Festival stage to a yearly sold-out performance at the Arvada Center that spanned two decades, Southern Exposure was one of the most popular and successful bands in the region. Founded in 1981 with the idea of using bluegrass instruments to create arrangements of songs that weren't necessarily bluegrass by nature, the group combined stellar musicianship, flawless three-part vocals and razor-sharp humor to unleash unforgettable stage shows on their legions of fans. After several years of inactivity, Southern Exposure will reunite for this show only—a performance not to be missed.

REUNION

Reckless Abandon played their first show in 1999 and quickly became a staple of the Rocky Mountain music scene, covering their favorite songs from their respective misspent teenage years. The band called it quits in 2019 when founding members Jim and Vickie Jones moved to Tennessee to live the quiet life as retirees. Fortunately, these hippies-at-heart hung on to their instruments and their tie dye shirts, all of which have miraculously stood the test of time. Kinda like the band.
